Central Hardware store likely to close

Optimism about Granite City's store remaining open dimmed Thursday when a federal bankruptcy court approved the company's reorganization plan.

The reorganization calls for the Granite City store to be shut down this fall as part of the plan to bring the 39-store chain out of bankruptcy. The company's store in Alton will remain open.

"We have made some overtures to Central Hardware management — both myself and the (Crossroads) Shopping Center management — but to date they have not changed their minds about closing in September," Granite City Economic Development Director Alan Orbals said Friday.

Orbals Shopping Cen-

Orbals said he has discussed recent developments in the city, such as the reopening of American Steel Foundries and expansion of existing industries like Feralloy and Capri Sun, with Central President Neil Margioulis.

"There are some very successful stores in that shopping center, and that tells me the potential for excellent sales volume is there."

"The industrial development occurring in the city also points to considerably more employment and expendable dollars as well," Orbals said.

Central Hardware had four months to come up with a plan to pay off debts and earn a profit after filing for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection March 29.

Under the reorganization plan, the company will close up to 16 outlets, including its Granite City store, and relocate some of the 1,200 employees affected by the cuts.

With the changes, the hardware chain expects to save at least $13 million and improve earnings by about $3 million by Nov. 30, Margioulis said.

On Thursday, Margioulis said the strategy is proceeding on a timely, positive track.

"We continue to exceed sales projections and have significantly improved earnings. With the closings approved Wednesday, these trends will be accelerated."

The company, with headquarters in Bridgeton, Mo., will close one store in Cape Girardeau, Mo., two in Nashville, Tenn., and a Hobo store in Indianapolis as part of the reorganization plan.

Going-out-of-business sales are scheduled at all but the Hobo location within the next two weeks.

Proceeds from the going-out-of-business sales will go into an escrow account to help satisfy claims of the company's bankers and creditors.

Tax plan called 'devastating' for city

Selph says surcharge reduction would force drastic cuts here

Granite City stands to lose as much as $500,000 if Senate Republicans have their way with the state income tax surcharge.

Mayor Ron Selph, who said he has "lobbed hard" to retain the municipal share of the surtax, said that kind of loss would be "devastating" for the city.

Selph

"It would mean drastic cuts in expenditures including putting off purchases of much-needed equipment," he said.

"This would be a real blow to the city. We will continue to fight hard for these dollars," Selph added that he hoped any loss would not require layoffs.

The mayor said Friday that he understands the state's budget problems but hopes legislators will also realize the continuing needs of local governments to maintain services and avoid raising property taxes.

"The state keeps establishing programs, but fails to provide funding for them," he said.

Madison County Board Administrator James Monday said any cut in the surcharge revenue would aggravate operating deficits already projected for the next two or three years.

Madison County would get at least $750,000 less under the Senate Republican plan, which calls for reducing the local share of the surcharge revenue to 20 percent for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Granite City's fiscal year runs from May 1 to April 30. During its last fiscal year, Granite City received 50 percent of the revenue for the remaining two months for a total of $502,134, City Comptroller K.P. MacTaggart said.

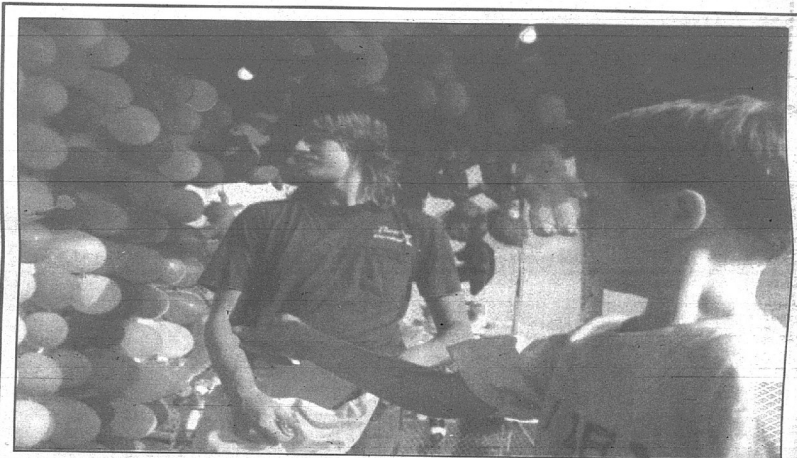

If funding is to continue at 75 percent, the city could expect to receive about $700,000, MacTaggart said. At 20 percent, the city would project receipts of about $185,000, MacTaggart said.

If the funding level is 50 percent, the city would stand to receive about $450,000.

The surcharge, set to expire June 30, boosts the individual income tax rate to 3 percent from 2.75 percent.

No tax needed for agency?

A new tax is unnecessary to support a health department in Madison County, a state public health official said.

"There is enough of a (tax) base already in place to support a health department in Madison County. It makes no sense to go out and impose a new one," said John Pitzer, director of the Edwardsville office of the Illinois Department of Public Health.

County Board members are considering asking voters for permission to establish a health department and impose a tax to fund it, but Pitzer said the existing tuberculosis clinic tax could be used to support a county health department.

Some board members, led by Bob Stille of Edwardsville, are pushing for a voter referendum to decide whether to establish a health department and authorize a new property tax of up to 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The board could bypass voters and establish a health department.

U.S. to crack down on foreign steel

By Mike Myers Staff writer

Nineteen countries that have been dumping steel on the American market, selling it here for less than it cost to produce — may soon face import duties as high as 100 percent.

The U.S. Department of Commerce, in a final determination issued last week, found that about $3.2 billion worth of foreign-produced hot-rolled steel, cold-rolled steel, corrosion resistant steel flat products and cut-to-length carbon steel plate had been dumped on the American market in 1992.

In a separate investigation, the department found 12 countries had subsidized steel producers exporting the same products.

The department's investigations were begun based on petitions filed by a number of American steel companies — including National Steel, the parent company of Granite City Steel — and the United Steelworkers of America labor union.

"This is good news, it's one more hurdle crossed," said Bob Toothman, spokesman for National Steel.

The Commerce Department has basically confirmed what we've said all along. We have to view this as a positive sign that the country plans to enforce its trade rules. That's all we've ever asked."

The Commerce Department ruling, which found that the unfair trade practices potentially cost American steel producers millions of dollars and thousands of jobs, now goes to the International Trade Commission.

Within 45 days the ITC will determine whether the unfair-trade practices caused actual injury to American steel makers.

If the ITC finds they were injured, the U.S. Customs Service will begin collecting duties.

The duties would be set to bring the price of the steel up to the actual cost of its production without subsidies.

Toothman said that, even at its highest level, National Steel only exports 3 percent

Madison Alderman John Hamm said he knows there is no such thing as a crystal ball to foresee the future.

But with the city in dire financial trouble, Hamm said Tuesday night that he believes the aldermen should have, in writing, some indication of where the city is headed financially.

Hamm asked that Comptroller Jeanne Weidner have the auditors now working with the city prepare a four-year financial projection.

The aldermen unanimously concurred with Hamm's request. Weidner said Thursday that she had talked to the auditing firm and a cost estimate for the four-year projection will be presented to the City Council at its July 6 meeting.

Alderman Norris Horton, chairman of the Finance Committee, asked that the council hold a special meeting as a "Committee of the Whole" after the four-year projection is prepared, to discuss it.

City Attorney

Although concerns had been raised in the past that the meetings might not be legal if a quorum of aldermen attended, Nighoghossian said committee meetings are public meetings and open to the aldermen and the public.

"I'm not saying the committee can't close a meeting to discuss matters covered by the Open Meetings Act," he said. "But generally they are open to anyone, including aldermen."

In other business, Mayor John Bellcoff responded to a letter from Teamsters Local 525 objecting to the city's use of summer workers from the Job Training Partnership Act program while four members of the street department are laid off. The workers are represented by the Teamsters.

East Madison fire — Madison firefighters pour water on the former Anita's Place tavern at 1901 Third Street in East Madison. The fire Thursday completely destroyed the building, which collapsed on itself and kept firefighters busy at the scene from about 2 a.m. until after 10 p.m. Thursday. Debris from the building blocked Highway 203 for much of the day and a heavy equipment crew from the Illinois Department of Transportation had to be called in to assist.

Man faces U.S. charge for rape

A federal grand jury has indicted a 50-year-old St. Louis man for allegedly transporting a Granite City juvenile girl across state lines to commit rape and sodomy.

James L. Davis has been charged with four counts of transporting the child, under the age of 18, from Granite City to St. Louis to commit rape, sodomy and "other activity prohibited under Missouri, Illinois and federal law," according to U.S. Attorney Clifford Proud.

The alleged violations took place between July 1991 and July 1992. If convicted, Davis could be sentenced to up to 40 years in prison and fined up to $1 million. Information for the indictment was obtained in an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the St. Louis City Sex Crimes Unit, the Granite City Police Department and the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

by resolution and use the TB Clinic tax to run it, but Stille and his allies are reluctant to do so, arguing the money may not be enough.

State's Attorney William Haine told board members last week they would be limited to about $70,000 a year brought in by the 1.4-cent clinic tax if a department is created by resolution.

But Pitzer said Thursday that state law allows county officials to raise the tuberculosis tax as high as 7.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation without a referendum, even if the money is intended for health functions other than TB control.

Haine said he'd have to research Pitzer's claim. "I would have to look at the statute again. The precise answer to your question is I don't know," Haine said after being asked who was right.

Stille said it doesn't matter who's correct.

"What's still raising taxes, and if it gets to where we're going to have to increase taxes, the voters should have a say on it," he said.

Increasing the TB clinic tax to 7.5 cents would bring in about $14 million a year, but Pitzer said an increase to between 2.5 cents and 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation would be enough.

A 3-cent tax would generate about $900,000 a year, costing the owner of a home with a $50,000 market value about $8.30 a year. That's about $6 more per year than the property owner now pays for the TB clinic tax.

DUI suspensions show rise

Ninety-two percent of Illinoisans arrested for driving under the influence in 1992 lost their driving privileges, Secretary of State George H. Ryan said.

The percentage of suspensions and revocations was up from 1991 and matched the high point set in 1986, the year the current DUI law took effect, according to the 1992 DUI Fact Book.

"Illinois police, prosecutors and the secretary of state's office have shown they can get drunk drivers off the road in large numbers," Ryan said in announcing the book's publication.

"The swift and certain loss of driving privileges is one of the best deterrents we have against drunk driving. As we deter drunk drivers, by the same token, we continue to save lives."

Illinois' traffic fatality rate fell to an all-time low in 1992. In alcohol-related crashes, one of the steepest declines in recent years saw 561 people die, compared with 697 in 1991.

The 23-page fact book, the 11th released by the secretary of state's office, provides county breakdowns of DUI arrests and suspensions throughout Illinois. It also provides information about current law and penalties.

Facts from the latest edition: The number of DUI arrests continued a long decline. Despite tougher enforcement efforts, total arrests fell from 48,659 in 1991 to 47,941 last year.

"This long-standing trend is the best evidence that we have that more people every year are wising up and deciding it's not worth the risk to drink and drive," Ryan said.

* DUI arrests for drivers age 20 and under fell even more dramatically than for the general population by 10 percent from 1991 and by 48 percent from 1986, when the law took effect.

In total, 1,884 underage drinkers were arrested for DUI last year, compared with 2,100 the previous year.

Ryan's office sponsors several youth educational efforts, including "Safe Celebration," which helps communities plan alcohol-free events for teens.

department would be a minimum of $300,000 a year in state grants available to every county in the state with a health department, Pitzer said. Madison County would have qualified for those funds this year if it had a health department, he said.

"There is no reason to impose a 10-cent tax when there is the potential for a 7.5-cent tax already there," Pitzer said. "It seems like a lot of unnecessary work."

Haine also told the County Board the TB Clinic would have to be kept open with tuberculosis tax revenues if a health department were created, but Pitzer said the functions of the TB Clinic could be folded into a health department.

St. Clair County did just that seven years ago when it created a health department.

"Technically and administratively it would not make any sense whatsoever to keep a separate tuberculosis-control agency open alongside a health department," Pitzer said.

Haine said he intended to meet with Stille, County Administrator Jim Monday, Board Chairman Nelson Hagmutter and board member Harold Byers in the next week to discuss the issue.

"It's a policy question for the board as to whether they intend to raise the (tuberculosis) tax to 3 or 5 cents without a referendum," Haine said.

Earlier this week, a leader of the League of Women Voters of the Edwardsville Area accused Stille of attempting to covertly kill the health department proposal by putting it on the ballot at a time when anti-tax sentiment runs high with voters.

Marcia Custer, chairman of the league's Health Department Committee, said the County Board should establish a health department by resolution and combine the tuberculosis tax and state grants to support it.

"I'm not opposed to a health department," Stille said Thursday. "I'm opposed to raising taxes."

The deadline for placing referendums on the November ballot is Aug. 16. Stille and his supporters would need 11,590 signatures to get the issue on the ballot.

er Huebner told the Senate Executive Committee on Thursday that the proposed cut in surcharge distributions is unfair to local governments.

The Municipal League projected that under the Senate GOP plan revenue-sharing from the surcharge would drop to $6.04 per capita for municipal governments, Huebner said.

That compares with a projected $18.46 per person in the state's current fiscal year ending June 30, he said.

The Senate GOP plan also would give the cities and counties a permanent one-eleventh of total state income tax receipts starting July 1, 1994, up from the current one-twelfth.

The majority House Democrats, however, said they would insist on at least a 30 percent share for local governments and a permanent one-tenth of total income tax receipts after that.

House Majority Leader Jim McPike, D-Alton, said Speaker Michael Madigan was under the Haine irate over Edgar's plan to release some convicts early

A plan to relieve prison overcrowding by releasing inmates earlier could "open the door to disaster," Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine says.

Haine contends proposals by the Edgar administration to give inmates additional time off their sentences for participating in educational and work programs violates the principle of "truth in sentencing."

The plan also "breaks a covenant made with the people of Illinois for tougher penalties when Class X sentencing was passed," Haine said, referring to the 1977 law pushed by former Gov. James Thompson.

Instead of trying to find ways to reduce prison overcrowding by releasing inmates earlier, "if it takes building more prison space that's what we ought to do," the Madison County prosecutor added.

Building prisons is "a necessary cost in the present lawless age and we need to build what it takes to make our community safe," Haine said.

Haine boasted that his office has sent more than 400 felons to the state prison system in the five years he has been on the job. He argued that giving early releases would thwart the impact of "better police work and an aggressive system of prosecution."

Haine also responded to arguments by the governor and Director of Corrections Howard Peters that the state can no longer afford to build its way out of the prison overcrowding crisis.

Haine contended they were not taking into account "the greater cost to the citizenry from increased crime if we don't keep criminals in prison to the full length of their sentences."

Edgar made a pitch for the early-release legislation, which was endorsed by a task force on prison overcrowding, at the dedication of the Greene County prison boot camp in mid-June and at openings of two other work camps.

The governor said the state needed to start placing more emphasis on rehabilitation to reduce repeated returns to prison.

But Haine contended that the prisoners should take personal responsibility for any rehabilitation programs available while they are behind bars and not be rewarded with early release.

The early-release legislation passed the Senate but has been stalled in the House because of opposition by House Speaker Michael Madigan, D-Chicago.

The prison system currently has about 32,000 inmates and was built for a capacity of 22,000.

Peters has warned that the system could be completely out of space next year if nothing is done to relieve the pressure.

The bill would allow inmates who participate in substance abuse, education or prison industry programs to get a half-day off their sentence for each day in prison.

That is in addition to the automatic day off for each day of space next year if nothing is done to relieve the pressure.

The extra credit would not be available to those serving time for the most serious or violent felonies, however.

Children hot, hungry

The Department of Children and Family Services is investigating a case in Venice in which police discovered five young children in a sweltering public housing apartment with no electricity and virtually no food Tuesday night.

The children, ages 1, 10, 8, 7 and 6, were being supervised by a 13-year-old boy while the mother was away from home.

Police Chief James Bennett and Patrolman Rodney Davis responded to the call at Lee Wright Homes at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday to find the five children sitting in the dark in a living room and the baby-sitter cooking the only food in the house in a litter-filled kitchen, according to a police report.

The refrigerator and freezer were empty, all windows were shut and shades pulled, and the baby-sitter was using a flashlight to see what he was cooking, according to the police report.

The children told Bennett they had not eaten all day. Bennett and Davis took the children to the police station, fed them, and called the DCF.

The children were later released to the custody of their mother and grandmother, the report states.

Myers wins award for editorial

Mike Myers, city editor of the Granite City Press-Record/Journal, has been named winner of this year's Golden Quill Award by the International Society of Weekly Newspapers.

The Golden Quill, established in 1961, annually recognizes top writing in the field of weekly newspapers.

Along with the Golden Quill award, Golden Dozen finalists are selected each year. Myers, who was a member of the Golden Dozen last year, will be honored along with Eugene Cervi Award Winner Bob Bliss of the Montgomery County (Ill.) News at the annual award conference in Brookings, S.D., in July.

The Cervi Award recognizes a career of public service in the tradition of the late Cervi, editor of the Rocky Mountain Herald in Denver, who believed "good journalism begets good government."

Joe Dill, editor of the Fargo Star and of this year's Golden Quill judge, called Myers' winning editorial "Racism real, must be fought," "logical, well-reasoned and, most of all, gutsy."

When the surcharge was first passed on a temporary basis in 1989, cities and counties received $33 per capita, nearly 10 times what they would get after July 1, 1994, Huebner argued.

Although some cities initially used surcharges to pay directly for capital projects, many, including Granite City, have since begun using some of it for operating purposes.

Philp noted that local governments had been warned when the surcharge was enacted to use it for capital spending rather than operating expenses in case the surcharge was discontinued.

Plan would raise cigarette tax in state by 25 cents a pack

SPRINGFIELD — A tax on nursing home patients would go in smoke under a Republican plan to hike the cigarette tax by 25 cents a pack and clear the state air of a state budget deadlock.

The 32 Senate Republicans, the majority in the Senate, emerged from caucus after more than three hours Wednesday with a package of bills they hoped could bring the session to an end by the traditional adjournment date of June 30.

The bills include increasing cigarette and tobacco taxes to help pay for Medicaid and eliminating the unpopular $6.30 daily tax on nursing home residents.

The package would also cut the Medicaid tax on hospitals from 2.11 percent to 1.68 percent of revenues.

A replacement for the nursing home tax, dubbed the "granny tax," has been the knottiest issue facing lawmakers. A hefty er cigarette tax hike proposed earlier was withdrawn. The new plan would raise an estimated $185 million for Medicaid, which would be matched with federal money.

The temporary state income tax surcharge would be made permanent while giving municipal and county governments an increase of about $89 million over income tax revenues in 1989, before the surcharge went into effect.

If approved, individual income tax rates would be 3 percent, instead of the 2.75 percent scheduled to take effect July 1, when the surcharge is set to expire.

Local governments will get nearly $80 million from the surcharge this fiscal year ending June 30. Gov. Jim Edgar's March budget had proposed making the surcharge permanent and keeping all the money for the state.

The Senate Republican legislation would partly replace the loss of the income tax surcharge money Edgar had figured in the budget by making about $167 million in spending cuts.

But the Senate GOP plan would also add about $65 million in education spending, including $35 million more for elementary and high schools and $30 million more for higher education.

Edgar issued a statement endorsing most of the details and praising the Senate Republicans for a "bold initiative to end the gridlock in the Legislature."

House Speaker Michael Madigan, D-Chicago, had ripped Edgar and the Republican leaders for failing to reach agreement on the Medicaid taxes and distribution of a permanent income tax increase in the legislative recess this month.

Madigan said he would oppose a cigarette tax hike because he is against more state taxes on products.

Budget fight could lead to long count

SPRINGFIELD — The annual state budget fight is apparently headed for another deadlock, as the Democrats controlling the House said they will not support a plan approved by Republicans controlling the Senate.

House Speaker Michael Madigan, D-Chicago, ripped Senate President James "Pete" Philip, R-Wood Dale, for a "pre-emptive strike" by Senate Republicans who passed budget legislation dealing with the income tax surcharge and a cigarette tax hike to fund Medicaid.

The speaker said he had agreed to Gov. Jim Edgar's request that the House not pass a partisan budget and allow time for negotiations.

Madigan questioned why Philip had not followed the same course and charged Edgar with a lack of leadership. The governor "has his (Republican) legislators going off in different directions," Madigan said.

House Democrats decided in caucus that they would not go along with several Senate moves, including giving local governments only a 20 percent share of the income tax surcharge revenue for the fiscal year starting July 1, Madigan said.

He said he thought the governor had earlier agreed to at least a 30 percent share for municipalities and counties, but Edgar then endorsed Philip's plan.

Madigan said he believed Edgar was "just tagging along" with the Senate Republican budget and tax plan.

Although Madigan said he was "not prepared to support" the 25-cent-a-pack cigarette tax increase and a 20-percent tax on other tobacco products in the Senate bill, he did not rule out the possibility of tobacco tax hikes in a final budget agreement.

Madigan said representatives of the tobacco industry had been asked to say what level of tax hike "they would find acceptable."

Senate Republicans contended their package could allow the Legislature to complete its business by the traditional adjournment deadline of June 30. But Madigan warned Thursday if Republicans refused to negotiate in good faith the session could drag into "the third week in July" without a budget. Such a delay could mean late paychecks for state employees, which happened two years ago when lawmakers did not wrap up until July 19.

The Legislature recessed Thursday until Monday.

Lead, radon not worst problem in Granite City

TO THE EDITOR:
A few blocks from thundering Granite City Steel, near the decaying bones of industry past, behind an impotent fence of tarnished wire, lies the sleeping toxic mounds that are the deadly legacy of a company known as National Lead.

Under the watchful eyes of the Environmental Protection Agency, this ashen giant slowly stirs and, with each passing rain, its evil venom leeches further into our troubled community.

The alarm is sounded. Something must be done.

Excuse me a minute while I laugh hysterically and then cry.

Without a doubt, the most famous citizen of Granite City is the old waste dump located near 18th Street.

Composed mainly of battery casings and lead refining leftovers, this spectacular heap is often on the front page, the TV, the radio, and the lips of concerned civic leaders.

Truly, I am pleased that so many find employment exploiting this industrial byproduct. But the real enemy, the real threat to our very existence, lies one mile from this site.

A reminder: Every year, many human hearts are gruesomely silenced, without ceremony, without remorse, without recognition.

"The human blood of a nameless baby cries out from our sewers to the living God who graciously allows us time for repentance — but only so much."

I must admit that lead poisoning is a "safe" cause. After all, no one advocates the accidental ingestion of this "poison," and yes, too much lead in the system has serious physical consequences.

However, what this whole situation really demonstrates is our tendency to "major in the minors."

We treat the abrasion and ignore the cancer.

Let's face it. Abortion is controversial — at least as much as slavery was in the last century. Indeed, there are many parallels between that time and our own.

For instance, then, as now, a Supreme Court handed down rulings that classified some individuals as less than human. Then, as now, there are those whose passion on the subject divides families as well as communities.

And, incredibly, then, as now, there are those on both sides of the issue who would raise the banner of Christ — imagine linking the Savior to slavery or the murder of the innocent!

What we don't have is the man mentioned on our Illinois license plate.

We may be the "Land of Lincoln," but by our deeds we prove that we share neither his convictions nor his courage.

His name and the lessons of his time have become as meaningless to us as the rest of our national holidays.

But, hey, go ahead and remove that tainted topsoil to the tune of $30 million.

Let's scrape the asbestos off the ceiling and filter the radon from the air.

While we're at it, let's "sin tax" tobacco and alcohol to discourage their abuse.

But with all these body-purifying programs, our hearts will be just as black and our hands just as bloody. And since we will not judge ourselves, our sure judgment will come from another.

For, just as the Civil War, with its unspeakable carnage, humbled an arrogant nation, even so shall we be brought to our knees. Because, in the words of Lincoln, "we have become too proud to pray to the God that made us."

Important to educate kids about dangerous world

Carol Clarkin writes this Edwardsville Journal column.

In an ideal world — a paradise — there would be no poverty, no crime, no illness, no war. None of the plagues of modern society.

But ours is a less than perfect world. We have to deal with it and its imperfections. Ideally, every generation would learn the lessons of the past — its triumphs and its failures.

Every generation would take the long view and work to improve man's life for our young and those we'll never see. Thankfully, there are many who do just that.

Naturally, our individual talents and interests and expertise vary, but there are enough social plagues to go around.

Which was why I found admirable the "platform" choice of the current Miss America during her year's reign — AIDS awareness. And why I was saddened, but not surprised, at recent rebuffs she's encountered in some Florida schools.

Normally, I don't pay much attention to what any specific Miss America is up to.

I know they're pretty, shapely and talented and that, during the year of their "reign," they espouse some worthy cause and travel the country on its behalf.

I don't equate them with the beauty queen type portrayed by Delta Burke as Suzanne Sugarbaker on "Designing Women."

Thus I was sorry to learn that uneasy, indeed, rests the crown on Leanza Cornett's head.

Speaking to a meeting of two service groups, she explained that, although her AIDS awareness project had been supported by both her corporate sponsors and the Miss America organization, she's run into some censorship problems in some schools in her own home state.

In three elementary schools in Bradford County, she was told by school officials not to mention the word "AIDS." In a Jacksonville high school, she was told not to mention "condoms."

The Bradford County schools involved introducing the subject of AIDS in its curriculum at the fifth-grade level and sex education in the sixth grade. School officials there are required to notify parents in advance if an outside speaker would be discussing sexual issues.

Now, that's easy enough to do. Notify parents and, if they don't want their child to hear such discussions, excuse that student from the talk.

I don't see a lot of point in including the lowest grades in the audience. But why it wouldn't have been permissible to speak to those fifth- and sixth-grade kids about the disease, I can't fathom.

And not mentioning condoms to high school students? Come on!

Does the school board think those kids don't know what they are? At any rate, any responsible speaker on the subject of AIDS is going to tell those students that condoms are recognized to be unreliable and no guarantee against AIDS (or pregnancy).

In fact, such a speaker is going to say that currently there is no guarantee against the disease, from a sexual standpoint except abstinence. Chalk one up for chastity.

When our small children have grown old enough to leave the protection of home and yard and parents, we warn them about the dangers of the outside world.

Don't take candy from a stranger, don't get in the stranger's car or wander off with him.

Pageants require much time, effort by young entrants and their parents

TO THE EDITOR:

While writing in reference to several recent articles which were published in the local newspaper.

These were about the participation and awards received by several local girls in pageants.

These girls spent many hours practicing and preparing for these pageants.

We, as parents, appreciate the fact that you are able and willing to honor and recognize them in their accomplishments in the newspaper.

However, the articles in your May 23 edition were not up to the standards that we have come to expect.

Several were edited and important accomplishments and acknowledgements were omitted.

Specifically, one young lady won the grand prize, a trip to Disney World in Florida, and that was eliminated as unimportant to the article?

Accompanying photographs were left out as well as the names of the girls' instructors and sponsors.

Without the instructors' expertise and the sponsors' financial support, many of our children would be unable to participate in pageants and other young persons' activities.

The timeliness of the articles leaves much to be desired also. We realize you have space limitations and other commitments and we do not expect publication in the very next edition after turning in a notice.

Unfortunately, eight weeks seems more than adequate to find room to publish the entire article and

Most homeless in county are women, children, study finds

The majority of Madison County's more than 300 homeless people are women and young children, a new study shows.

"It's sad but that's the way it is," said Sue Panetti-Lee, an official with Crisis Services of Madison County Inc., a Wood River-based social service organization.

"This certainly goes against the stereotype we have of the average homeless person being a drunk, shiftless, single man who chooses to live that way," she said.

Exact figures were unavailable but a preliminary count of the homeless in Madison County showed more than 300 without permanent residences.

"These are people who are going from shelter to shelter, staying in their cars, doubling up with relatives or friends and that sort of thing, whatever it takes to get by," Panetti-Lee said.

The count was conducted over a one-week period this spring by the Madison County Shelter Task Force, a coalition of county officials, church leaders and private social service groups chaired by Panetti-Lee.

Final figures are not expected until the Madison County Community Development Office finishes tabulating the results of the count, which could take several more weeks.

Nonetheless, the face of homelessness that is emerging in Madison County has some community leaders worried.

"If most of the homeless here are women and children, then it's going to be much tougher to find shelter for them because we have to use up so much more of our resources to help them out," said task force member Margaret Trushel. She is affiliated with the Oasis Women's Center, a shelter and counseling center for victims of domestic violence.

Finding emergency shelter for a mother and her children who suddenly find themselves out on the street is more difficult than doing the same for a single adult man because of the larger space needed and the higher costs involved for rent, food and heat, Trushel said.

The Rev. Jim Wheeler of the Metropolitan United Methodist Church of Alton also said the concentration of mothers and children among the homeless could make the problem trickier to solve.

"I certainly does add a different flavor to who we are dealing with," said Wheeler, who is also a member of the task force.

Task force members are going forward with plans to establish a network of shelters in northern Madison County to handle the large number of homeless people looking for shelter and other services in the fall and winter months.

Eventually, task force leaders intend to do quarterly homeless counts and possibly extend the volunteer shelter network into the southern half of the county. But that could be several months or even years down the road, they said.

County cited for community service

The Madison County Board has been presented an "Award of Excellence" for the county's Community Services Block Grant program.

Grey Warner, chief, Office of Community Services of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, presented the award to Cheryl Jouett and Walter Hunter as recognition by the state for having the top rated CSBG program in Illinois for the 1992 program year.

Warner said there are 45 agencies in the state which operate CSBG programs. The agencies are rated each year according to the effectiveness and efficiency of their programs in providing services to people living at or below the poverty level.

The Grants Committee oversees operations of the CSBG program, which is administered by the Madison County Community Development Department.

Administrator Jouett said that "our main goal is eliminating the conditions of poverty in our communities."

She said that more than 10 percent of the county's population lives in poverty and Community Development uses the CSBG grant to provide a variety of services to help economically disadvantaged people.

The program operates six emergency shelter apartment units, which house 40 to 50 homeless families with children each year.

Emergency assistance with medicine, rent, food and other necessities is provided in cooperation with the Tri-Cities Area United Way and River Bend United Way.

Door-to-door transportation services are provided by the Agency for Community Transit using CSBG funding.

Along with providing services to help the poor survive day to day, the program also grants six college scholarships each year to students of high academic achievement. And it operates a small business low-interest loan program to encourage business expansion and job creation.

Who provides the most physical therapy rehab services in convenient settings with you in mind?

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL.

When your physician recommends physical therapy rehab services, Memorial's proven program, with a variety of convenient locations and flexible scheduling options, can get you back to work...to play...to living.

Memorial's Physical Therapy Services offers professional evaluations in a variety of settings by 16 physical therapists with over 170 years of combined expertise. Together with Memorial's 34 skilled physical therapy assistants, they provide state-of-the-art treatment to help you reach your full potential whether you're an inpatient at Memorial Hospital, a patient receiving Memorial's full range of physical therapy rehab services at Memorial Convalescent Center, or an outpatient utilizing Memorial's convenient facilities. Outpatients can receive their treatments at Memorial Hospital or at close-to-home offices in west Belleville or Collinsville. A physical therapist is also available at Belleville Health and Sports Center to provide consultation and assist you in maximizing your workout routine. In addition, Memorial Home Care offers advanced physical therapy services in your own home if you're making the transition from a hospital or convalescent center to home.

When your physician recommends physical therapy rehab services, ask that it be performed by the skilled therapy professionals of Memorial's Physical Therapy Services --- this area's recognized leader in proven physical therapy services.

VP Fair bus service offered

Does spending your July 4th weekend searching for a parking spot and fighting holiday traffic make you see fireworks? Then leave the driving to Bi-State and take the VP Fair Shuttle for only 25 cents per person.

VP Shuttle buses will run during the fair on July 3-5 approximately every five minutes from noon until after the nightly fireworks display.

The VP Shuttle will begin by Union Station at 18th and Market, travel south on 18th street, east on Clark, north on Tucker, east on Washington, south on Memorial Drive, west on Pine, south on Broadway and then west on Market to the starting point at Union Station.

Bi-State bus service will be available on regular routes during the fair. Buses serving the Missouri and Illinois areas will be parked after the fireworks on key downtown streets.

Passengers needing service to Illinois can catch buses on 4th street between Washington and Memorial Drive and on 3rd Street at Convention Plaza. In Madison County, Bi-State buses will leave the Edwardsville/Collinsville and Alton/Tri-City areas every hour starting at 8 a.m. The free hourly express service to the VP Fair is being sponsored by the Madison County Transit District.

In St. Clair County, fares for VP service are $1 for adults, and 50 cents for children 12 and under. Exact fare is required. No passes or tickets are valid on Special VP Fair service and no senior, children or disabled discounts apply.

MADD poster to fight DUIs

Members of the Madison County chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving are planning to spread a lifesaving message with a new poster.

MADD members are producing the poster to remind residents of the dangers of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

President Carolyn Dearduff said the group hopes to place the posters in taverns and other establishments around the county.

Dearduff said the poster will depict the possible consequences of drunken driving with a photograph of Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Brad Wells and a squad car, an ambulance and a hearse.

A taxi will also be featured with the slogan, "Drinking? Designate your driver."

Scott foes to end fight

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

The attorney representing opponents to the $70 million Scott Joint Use construction bonds said the group will not continue a fight over the number of signatures required to force a referendum.

However, he said he is still reviewing whether any legal action can be taken because of confusion on the deadline date for the petitions. "I don't know if there can be anything done about the deadline," said attorney John Long. "I've gotten something on that, but I haven't had time to analyze it yet."

St. Clair County Clerk Jaunce Delaney told Richard Bossier, who headed the petition drive, that the groups had until Aug. 16 to file petitions. However, on June 2, Delaney told Bossier the deadline was June 3.

Bossier said he had other petitions out that may have helped the effort, but did not have time to collect them all because of the short time span. Bossier and others collected 8,884 signatures, but 11,400 were needed to force a referendum on the bonds in the November election.

During a challenge on the petitions, Long argued that the county had required too many signatures. But he said Monday the matter was cleared up with a call to the Illinois State Board of Elections.

Beware of turning over one's legal rights

In the last few years there has been a dramatic increase in the use of a number of legal instruments: the living will, health care proxy, and durable power of attorney.

This article will give a basic overview of the durable power of attorney.

A power of attorney is a technique whereby a person (principal) nominates another person (attorney-in-fact or agent) to act in the principal's place and on the principal's behalf.

A power of attorney may authorize one to perform a specific act on the principal's behalf or give very broad powers to manage the principal's assets. In that a power of attorney terminates upon one's disability, a durable feature was added so that the power continues notwithstanding the principal's disability or incompetency.

The following is an abbreviated list of the powers often contained in a power of attorney. To write checks, to borrow money, to purchase and sell investments, real estate, etc.; to receive dividends due. Numerous instruments are drafted this type of document.

1. Giving complete control over one's assets to another. Numerous instruments are executed in which one's spouse and a child are named attorney by individuals in their early forties.

The concern is the potential mischief which can be set in motion by an unhappy spouse or child.

2. How does one revoke a power once given? The principal can merely execute a revocatory document.

3. How long does a power remain effective? Technically, a durable power lasts for the lifetime of the maker unless changed by the principal.

4. The power is often ineffective when most needed. Once an individual is deemed incompetent, the holder of the power often desires to do some post-incompetency estate and tax planning or qualify the principal for Medicaid.

Unless specific authorization to make gifts or change beneficiaries is contained in the power, many states preclude the principal from making gifts.

It should be clear that executing a preprinted form without discussing its impact and ramifications with one's legal and tax advisers can cause unexpected results. Brian Mulhall of Granite City is a partner with a St. Louis-based financial services company. He can be called at (314) 568-0520.

Grand opening at laundry

Central Square Laundry, 3361 Fehling Road, Granite City (next to Imo's), is celebrating its grand opening throughout June. Customers may register for the grand opening giveaway of a color TV and free laundry service.

Roger and Gayle Rawson recently purchased the former Pub-n-Scrub Laundromat and have repaired the equipment and redecorated the laundry.

The Rawsons and their employees, Janet Bowlin and Cindy Aldridge, pride themselves on keeping the laundry clean for their customers. While patrons are washing their laundry, they can relax in a large lounge area with cable TV, pinball, video games and free coffee.

"For those customers who are short on time or loathe doing laundry, Central Square Laundry offers drop-off service at reasonable rates," the owners said.

Surgical services director named

Vanessa Loyd, RN, has joined St. Elizabeth Medical Center as Surgical Services director.

Loyd will work closely with the Operating Room, the Gastrointestinal Laboratory, and Post Anesthesia Care Unit (PACU) as well as the Pre-Screen and Pain Management Unit.

A native of St. Louis, she has been pursuing a master's degree in nursing administration since January 1991, while working as assistant head nurse at St. John Medical Center in St. Louis and as head nurse of Operating Room at FACU at Deaconess West Hospital, also in St. Louis. She will graduate in December.

"I sought this position because of career desires," Loyd said. "After the interview, I felt the medical center was very community-oriented and that this position can help the institution and me personally and professionally, because I felt the organization and I share the same vision."

She pursued her college education in nursing at Kansas Newman College in Wichita, Kan.

Loyd has been a member of the Association of Operating Room Nurses since 1982, and has just been inducted into Sigma Theta Nursing Honor Society.

Her vision for the Surgical Services Department at SEMC is clear.

"That we be the best Surgical Service Department on this side of the river," she said.

Inducted by College of Sports Medicine

Internist Darren Wethers, on staff at St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Family Services Clinic, was recently inducted into the American College of Sports Medicine.

The organization is a group devoted to the study of exercise and the relationship of physiology to sports, and the impact of wellness and illness on an athlete's performance.

"This organization gives me the opportunity to read about cutting-edge sports medicine research and everyday problems through its journal," Dr. Wethers said.

"It also gives me the opportunity to attend annual clinical conferences and training seminars."

Wethers said the organization is comprised of individuals with a variety of backgrounds: physicians, activity therapists, sports physiologists, nutritionists.

"I can apply the things I learn through this organization to my work with student athletes in Granite City and Collinsville," he said.

"It will also help me when treating adults, those 'weekend warriors' who overextend their athletic capabilities and injure themselves while playing tennis, softball or taking part in activities like rollerblading."

FRANK'S NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

June is nearly over, the plants are planted, the lawn's in good shape (hopefully), and everything else seems in top-notch condition. What's the gardener to do? Is this a lull in the action? Not at all. When it comes to gardening, you're never quite finished. There's always something to do.

Mowing. This is probably not your idea of a fun way to spend a nice day. But if you look at it another way, it might not seem so bad. Did you realize that in cutting a typical neighborhood lawn, you'll walk over 12 miles in a season? That's equivalent to four rounds of golf on an average par-72 course! Okay, we'll admit that a round of golf can't compare to mowing, but there's little doubt that they're both a great way to exercise!

When you mow, try to alternate your path every week. Repeated mowing in the same path tends to wear down the areas where the wheels constantly pass. Besides, it can get you into a rut (no pun intended). Varying your path breaks the monotony, sort of like going a different route to work every now and then.

Keep your mower's blade sharp and never cut off more than a third of the grass blade at one time. During the hot summer months, longer grass helps keep weeds down.

Here's an interesting little fact about grass clippings. According to a recent study on a group of homeowners, it was found that those who mulched their clippings (returned them to the lawn) mowed an average of 5.4 times per month. The monthly average for those who bagged clippings was 4.1. But those who returned the clippings actually spent 38% less time mowing! The "baggers" spend all the extra time bagging and handling clippings.

Feeding. It's just about time for your third application of lawn food. Frank's Lawn Food applied now continues your 4-season lawn program. It's close enough to July 4th, and now's a great time to get it out of the way. Your lawn will be provided with everything it needs and you can enjoy the 4th. As with any product, always follow the instructions.

Crafts, Anyone? A craft project is a great way to spend a day when the weather turns sour. Crafting can turn into a regular hobby, regardless of the weather! Frank's stores have an almost endless variety of projects that are both fun and easy to do. You can create a simple needlepoint, build an elaborate dollhouse for that little girl in your life, paint, or just about anything else. Stop in and check out the many crafting items. They're fun, creative and can be enjoyed by people of all ages.

Vacations. Let's face it, there's nothing quite like heading out on the open road or being aboard one of those jets rising off a runway at Lambert Field. We all feel we've earned these moments. Of course the home front still needs care, but it doesn't have to stand in the way and mar your vacation plans. What you'll have to do before your trip depends on how long you're planning to be away. Going for just a week? Unless your lawn grows very rapidly, you won't have to worry about it. Just cut it before you leave, and it will be ready for another mowing when you return. Welcome home! If your itinerary calls for a longer stay, by all means make arrangements to have the lawn cut. An uncared-for lawn is like a neon sign out front proclaiming an empty house.

Your flowers (both indoors and out) will all need watering while you're away, and about the only way to accomplish that is to get someone to come over and water periodically. As for your indoor plants, perhaps you can get a friend, relative or neighbor to take them in and "plant sit." Healthy, thriving flowers awaiting your return are a true "welcome home" indeed.

Joseph Veres

Joseph P. Veres Jr., 74, of Granite City died at 9:55 p.m. Wednesday, June 23, 1993, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City.

He was born Feb. 22, 1919, in Granite City, where he was a life-long resident.

Hopkins seeking

Appellate Court judgeship

Circuit Judge Terrence J. Hopkins of the Second Judicial Circuit, State of Illinois, announced Friday that he was seeking the position of judge of the Appellate Court of the Fifth Appellate District.

Frankfort native said the position was last filled by election in 1988, when Robert H. Crippen, D-12th Illinois District, a member of the Congressional Steel Caucus, said the ruling indicates a "new, tougher attitude" in the Commerce Department when it comes to trade violations.

"For too long, we have allowed our trading partners to get away with unfair trade (practices) at the expense of

Belloc said the three or four JTEA workers were working with the recreation department and "are not taking our guys' jobs."

He said copies of an article in the June 20 Free Press-Journal detailing the letter had been sent anonymously to officials with Belleville Area College's Senior Aide Program.

The Teamsters previously objected to Senior Aides, who work with the recreation department, on the same grounds as the union's objection to the JTEA workers. The letter said the union had filed suit in that case.

"But once again we have somebody who's afraid to give their name stirring up trouble," Belloc said.

Project aims to make dreams possible for poor children

If Project CARING works as its developers think it will, students attending Lansdowne Junior High School in East St. Louis and its four feeder schools, as well as Stevens Middle School in St. Louis, can look forward to better career choices, better health care, stronger family units and other social and professional benefits they may never have dreamed possible.

CARING is actually an acronym for "Children At Risk: Initiating New Gateways." What really means is just that giving children from predominantly poor areas a positive boost on their way to adulthood.

Even though the program had its beginning on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River, it is expanding to the Missouri side, and eventually across the country. Already the program is considered a bit of a success in a lot of aspects — bridging the mighty Mississippi between Missouri and Illinois.

It is not only educationally, but culturally and economically as well.

organization established some years ago to foster economic development in the southwestern portion of the state), and the cities and school districts of both St. Louis and East St. Louis.

Supported by an Urban Community Service grant totaling $2,015,738 from the U.S. Department of Education, the program is one of 17 similar programs in the country. The grant covers a three-year period. Director of the project is Don Baden, professor and associate dean in the SIUE School of Education. The project is overseen by a steering committee made up of representatives from the sponsoring agencies.

The primary purpose of Project CARING is to improve the quality of life for children living in economically depressed areas. Those who developed the project believe that, by combining health care, competence in school and family services into one comprehensive program, children in such areas will have better educational goals, and ultimately, attaining professional positions and careers.

Backed by such an array of influential organizations, the chances of the program working is great.

In the meantime, several activities of Project CARING are already in place. No long ago, 200 eighth graders at Lansdowne Junior High School received a full range of immunizations, dental screenings, blood tests and other medical tests at clinics set up in the Lansdowne neighborhood. The services were all free. They were conducted by nurses and dentists from SIUE, social workers and staff from the Southern Illinois Health Care Foundation and the East Side Health District.

Early in May, just before the end of the 1992-1993 school year, students at Lansdowne were restoring an inner courtyard that had been neglected for years. Under the supervision of Rick Kelley, a teacher at SIUE, the students refurbished the yard, cleaning out and renovating what used to be a fish pond, surrounding it with stepping stones, and decorating the entire area with native trees, hostas, and other flowers, and there are plans to plant bulbs which will add to the courtyard's beauty next spring.

Not only that, one end of the courtyard was reserved for a small vegetable garden.

They had a right to be proud of their accomplishments. Pontoon Beach Jaycees plan member drive

The new Pontoon Beach Jaycees chapter met June 17 at Ralph and Charlie's Restaurant to plan for upcoming activities.

President Rod Wortham announced that the first emphasis will be on increasing the membership.

"Being a new chapter, we don't yet have the numbers we need to do for the community what we want to do. Starting with a membership drive just makes good sense."

The United States Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycees) is a civic organization for people between the ages of 21 and 40 that emphasizes the areas of individual development, leadership training and community involvement.

Plans being discussed include a softball tournament, a golf scramble, village festival and various fund-raising activities.

The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 28, at Ralph and Charlie's Restaurant.

Anyone wanting more information about "the greatest young persons organization in the world" may call 831-8334.

Horton requested that the city attorney and Library Committee, chaired by Alderman Michael Vrabec, meet and start taking the necessary steps to make the city library operation and budget autonomous.

He said he understood that the library should have operated this way all along, but that some time ago the city had placed the library in its budget.

"We need to make the changes necessary to start using the proper procedure," Horton said.

Horton's suggestion was unanimously approved.

Music store is Small Business of Month

The John Fornaszewski Music Store/Drum Shop, 3007-09 Nankoski Road, has been selected as the Small Business of the Month for June by the Small Business Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

The store, which offers musical instruments, instrument repair, music lessons and band and orchestra bookings was opened in 1983 and currently has four employees.

Owner John Fornaszewski said that when he opened the store he was a musician playing more than 200 dates a year with almost all of the popular bands and orchestras in the area. He said that exposure contributed to the store's early success.

"Being seen and heard playing out all the time, people got to know me and really connected my name with playing good music," Fornaszewski said. "So, when they were going to buy an instrument or take lessons, they knew we knew what we were doing and they could trust us."

Fornaszewski said the idea for this store grew out of his love for giving lessons. "Through private teaching, one thing led to another and, in 1983, we decided to open the 'Drum Shop,'" he said. "At the time, there were only four or five drum stores in the world, but today there are more than 100."

The Drum Shop became successful very quickly and, in 1985, Fornaszewski decided to open a full-line music store.

Fornaszewski said he is currently looking at adding a second store and is planning to add a piano line, including grand pianos, in the future.

In addition to being an active member of the chamber of commerce, Fornaszewski is a member of the Granite City Rotary Club, Old Six Mile Historical Society, the National Association of Music Merchants and American Federation of Musicians Locals 29, 717 and 2-197.

The John Fornaszewski Music Store/Drum Shop is open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday. It is closed Sunday.

Surgeon here completes course on lung disease

Muhammad Jamil, a general surgeon at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, has furthered his knowledge of the newest approaches used for treating lung and esophagus disease through a course offered at Washington University.

On May 5, Jamil attended the course, "An Update in General Thoracic Surgery." Current developments used for diagnosing and managing benign and malignant conditions that affect the lung, esophagus, pleura, airway, and mediastinum were presented.

The course also provided information on how physicians can improve decision-making skills used in the treatment of lung and esophagus disease.

Author describes automation

After receiving a letter requesting an article be written about the St. Elizabeth Medical Center Laboratory's usage of the Dawning StatCount, Rosemary Thomas, former head of Hematology, sat down at her word processor.

"I never really thought about it," Thomas said. "I just sat down the next day and wrote the article. It was no different than writing a justification letter, which I do for my administrator frequently."

The article, which appeared in the March issue of Healthcare Informatics, was written about the StatCount, which automates complete differential cell counts. Thomas included the Lab's need for StatCount, why the Dawning product was selected, and how it has benefited the Lab.

"We have no problems using the StatCount for our body fluid cell counts and reticulocyte counts," Thomas wrote in the article.

"The system allows the technician to continue counting beyond 100 cells. This is an advantage as well — using the calculator function to calculate our final results. The modules are much smaller than work station keyboards. When space is limited in the Lab, this is an important consideration."

"I was surprised the journal wanted me to write an article on such a small instrument used in our Lab. We have much larger instruments that we have implemented, but it was a pleasure to write the article for them," she said.

Usual — and not-so-usual — gifts for bride and groom

Looking for an original gift for the bride and groom? How about a 21-year-old maid, his and hers BMWs, or winning lottery tickets?

There are just a few of the unusual items brides have registered for, according to a survey of department store bridal registries by Proctor-Silex.

Other unique bridal requests included shrubs, a toilet seat, a trip to Alaska, a chain saw and a canoe.

Don't cross traditional favorites off your list, however. The survey found that most registry items are much more practical. For instance, two-thirds of brides register for appliances.

Coffee makers are the most-requested appliance, with mixers running a close second. Toasters and irons tie as the third most popular choice.

Bridal registrars said most brides rate the appliance's style above durability and affordability. In fact, two-thirds of respondents indicated the bride "never" considers price as a factor. Color, however, was ranked as very important.

Special features like automatic timing devices are also welcome, according to the survey.

Whether you're registering yourself or shopping for a bride-to-be, here are some tips to consider when choosing appliances:

➤ Ease of use: Select appliances that are easy to operate and have conveniently located controls.

➤ Ease of cleaning: Pick easy-to-clean finishes like baked enamel over fingerprint-catches like chrome.

➤ Space-savers: Consider compact appliances that take up less counter space.

➤ Favorite features: Select features that will make bride's favorite appliances even more useful. Some examples:

AUTOMATIC DRIP COFFEE MAKERS — Look for auto pause/serve, popular with busy young couples. It temporarily stops coffee flow during brewing to allow pouring of a quick first cup of coffee.

MIXERS — Choose a compact, rechargeable cordless mixer to make quick work of mixing fruit juices and milkshakes, egg whites, whipping cream, sauces and light batters.

TOASTERS — Be sure to pick a toaster with wide slots — they're a necessity.

Wedding invitations with style

Here are some valuable tips on sending wedding invitations in style:

➤ When addressing the inner envelope, exclude the adults' first names and addresses.

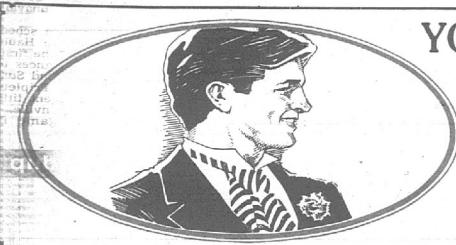

Intimate relatives may be addressed as "Aunt Elizabeth and Uncle John." Below the parents' names, include the first names of all children to be invited.

➤ On the outer envelope, always use a guest's full name and formal title. Use abbreviations only for Mr., Mrs., Ms., Dr. and Jr.

➤ It is improper to use abbreviations in the street address or to abbreviate a city or state. House numbers and zip codes may be written in figures.

➤ It is recommended to have your return address professionally printed on the outer envelopes to ensure that any undeliverable invitations are returned to you.

➤ Check with the post office to see if the invitations need additional postage. Invitations on heavy paper or with several enclosures often do.

Collinsville hurler stops Juniors Tri-City offense falls silent in 9-3 setback

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Tri-City Junior Triplets ran short on offense Friday night, falling 9-3 to Collinsville and pitcher Matt Field.

Field, who tossed a no-hitter through four innings, went the distance and survived a two-run rally by the Junior Triplets in the seventh inning. The loss dropped Tri-City to 7-3.

Stegemeier reflects on 40-year career

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Bob Stegemeier's career in baseball spanned four decades and included a successful college career and a four-year professional stint. His experiences took him to four stops in the minors and to the edge of the major leagues.

But in the end, the big winner in Stegemeier's career comes out to be Granite City High School. For the past two decades, Stegemeier devoted his life to leading the Warriors and the Steelers.

STEGEMEIER has carved out an era that will be remembered by numerous players, fans and opposing teams. He has been in the business long enough to have coached the sons of players he helped along at the beginning of his coaching career.

While the era has come to an end, memories of Stegemeier will live on.

"I'll miss the kids and the other coaches, and I'll miss the Errors also hurt Tri-City and starter Matt Tieman, who was coming off a 4-1 win over Wood River last week. Collinsville struck for one run in the second inning, five runs in the sixth and three runs in the seventh.

Tieman exited the game in the sixth after giving up three runs, two of which were unearned. "Fundamentally, we didn't execute," McKechan said. "Matt Tieman pitched very well. We just made mistakes behind him."

THE JUNIOR TRIPLETS scored their first run in the fifth, when Scott Nemeth led off with a triple and scored on a single by John Green.

With two outs in the seventh, the Junior Triplets made it interesting. Johnathan Reader began the rally by singling and advancing to second base on a passed ball. After Field struck out Green, Greg Sturdivant singled in Reader to make it 9-2.

Field then gave up a run-scoring double to Keith Simon. But Field got out of the inning by fanning Geske.

McKechan said the Junior Triplets will bounce back. "IT'S A LEARNING experience," McKechan said. "We're getting better."

The Junior Triplets were scheduled to play Cahokia on Saturday night. Their next game is 7 p.m. tonight at home against Bethalto.

Triplets suffer first-round loss to Mattoon

Tri-City Post 113 got off to a slow start at the Louisville Slugger Invitational in Danville on Thursday, losing 12-8 to Mattoon. The loss dropped the Triplets to 9-2 and ended their six-game winning streak. The Triplets were scheduled to play against South Bend (Ind.) and Urbana on Friday. Results were unavailable at press time.

The Triplets were also scheduled to play West Terre Haute (Ind.) on Saturday, but the first round loss hurt their chances to advance to the final round Sunday. Last year, the Triplets made it to the tournament of our game before losing to Danville. The Triplets' next game is Tuesday at Edwardsville.

Area roundup Stingers stay unbeaten in Midget play

The First Bank Stingers, a Granite City Ponytail Midget softball team, stayed undefeated this week with a 22-16 victory over Thunder.

Coach Lynn Wright said his squad, now 7-0, has been playing good ball, though the first five weeks of the season. "We have a fair team," Wright said. "We've got a brand new team this year. Some of our players have experience and some don't. We're really come together."

The Stingers needed only eight hits to get by Thunder, whose pitchers gave up 20 bases on balls. Melissa Spivey got the pitching victory.

Other team members are Courtney Mathis, Jenna Wright, Holly Ryan, Shannon Roth, Traci Manis, Amanda Lyons, Crystal Cavin, Katie Cooper, Katie Curran, Erica Lohman, Emily Novotny, Jamie Williams and Mandy Duncan.

THE HARDEE'S Ponytail Bantam team defeated Madison Amvets 8-6 this week, earning a tie for first place in the division. Both teams are 6-1.

Lauren Fusco's two-run seventh inning homer was the deciding blow for Hardee's. Stacy Evans picked up the victory after entering the game in the fourth inning. Of the 12 batters that remain retired, 11 were strikeouts.

"She's just an awesome pitcher with a great fastball," Hardee's coach Ruthann Withers said.

Amvets will get a rematch in the last game of the season Aug. 4 against Hardee's, whose team members include Ashley Burdige, Jamie Christopher, Amanda Coppote, Lindsey Crook, Della Moore, Shannon Paoli, Francis Davis, Bobbie Niemeyer, Rachel Means, Emily Richardson and Christina Withers.

THE BOBCATS improved their Atom I record to 4-2 with a high-scoring victory over the Black Sox this week.

The Bobcats, coached by Bob Niemeyer, won 17-13. They were led by Bobbie Niemeyer, who homered, and Kyle Foster, who tripled.

Other team members include Brad Bigham, Paul Day, Vincent Eckhard, Chad Feeney, Billy Verschuyl, Andy Wilson, Justin Hileman, Joey Patrick, William Mitchell, Michael Greeling, Glen Hollie, Jonathon Nesbitt and Daniel Pregel.

IN ATOM II action, Bob's Belmore Shell ran its record to 5-2 with a 26-7 thrashing of the Tigers.

The Shell team was led by Jeffery Jarrold, who smacked two home runs. Other keys to the win were Aaron Stoll's home run and Brandon Burris' three hits. John Greathouse also collected three safes, including a homer and a double.

Other team members of the Shell squad, which is coached by Kyle White, are Shannon Shanfelt, Justin Kuehnle, Billy Smith, Josh Leisner, Drew Courtney, Jason Williams, Brian Harris, Daniel Worthen, Eric Brewer and Brett Windfield.

THE BLUE JAYS dropped to 4-2 in Bantam I play after losing 15-13 to Arnette Pattern last Monday.

Despite home runs from Luke Forrester and Aaron Rangel, the Blue Jays, coached by Brian Gaines, couldn't hang on for the victory.

THE SPARKLES Ponytail Atom team moved over the 300 mark with a 21-20 win over Our Gang last week.

Bob Stegemeier (right) isn't the only veteran Southwestern Conference baseball coach who called it quits this season. Belleville East's Larry Patton stepped down after 27 years.

Two of a kind Stegemeier, Patton make their final call

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

Their paths crossed countless times over the years in Southwestern Conference games. So when Granite City baseball coach Bob Stegemeier and Belleville East's Larry Patton met for the final time this year in the regular season, May 10, Patton came prepared.

So did Stegemeier. After Patton gave Stegemeier a ball signed by the Lancers players at the beginning of the game, the Warriors went out and crushed the Lancers 12-1.

THE GAME symbolized the kind of coaches Stegemeier and Patton have been over the years — friendly, but ultimately, dead competitive. Sadly, their careers have come to an end.

Both were humble coaches who were highly respected by their peers. The gesture by Patton in their final meeting might have been the first sign that this would be their final season.

"It just showed what a class person he is," Stegemeier said after the game. "It was an awfully nice gesture."

While the Warriors swept the Lancers this season, Stegemeier and Patton leave the game after two decades of trading victories back and forth. Stegemeier coached for 29 years, and Patton coached for 27.

STEGEMEIER SAID the game at Belleville East was hardly representative of the showdowns that took place between Granite City and Belleville East over the years.

A grand slam by Granite City's Bob Wilson capped off an amazing 12-run fourth inning that started against East ace Joe Stines.

"Those things happen sometimes," Stegemeier said. "That will be a memorable game, but I knew they were much better than how they played that day. One time we had a three-run lead against them in the seventh, and we walked three batters. They hit a grand slam to beat us. I mentioned that to Larry at the (Granite City) sectional, and he remembered."

The most memorable confrontation came in 1986, when the two teams met for the sectional championship in Granite City. Belleville East won 7-2 and moved on to the state tournament for the third straight year.

FOR THREE straight years, Patton led East to the state semifinals. "I'll always remember the seasons we met in '84, '85 and '86," Patton said. "In '84, we made a decision to bring up some sophomores not necessarily with the expectation of them having great junior years, but that's what happened. They did very well again as seniors and the crop behind them was very good the following year."

Both the Warriors and the Lancers were strong enough this year to get to the sectional championship game, but the Regional championship games are nothing new for Belleville East baseball coach Larry Patton.

But a May 31 game against Belleville West was especially memorable, even though the Lancers lost. It was the final game for Patton, who is retiring after 27 seasons as East's head coach.

Kosiski edges brother for win at Tri-City

Joe Kosiski, after years of trying, finally won the CarQuest/AC-Delco 50 at Tri-City Speedway on Wednesday night. And he had his brother Steve at the checkers to do it.

THE LAPPED traffic was real tough for everybody to work and Steve got in and I thought he was going to go around on the outside because they were moving the lapped traffic down," Joe Kosiski said. "I was kind of in the advantage point, being in second, and he went to the outside and left me enough room to get underneath there."

Then Bill (Martin) messed up as we came down for the white flag. If there had been a couple more laps, Steve may have had a chance to get back in."

Sonny Smyser leaped into the lead at the drop of the green flag with Jay Johnson right behind. Joe Kosiski followed in third, but faded as the NASCAR Busch All-Star Tour 50-lapper settled in.

A SPIN by Bob Helm between turns three and four closed the field and Smyser couldn't hold off Johnson and the Kosiski brothers. Johnson held on for family and that's when the tears broke loose.

Patton, who is taking advantage of an early retirement incentive package for teachers, had a career record of 645-204. His teams won six Southwestern Conference titles and 10 regional and made six trips to the state tournament.

A 1958 graduate of Belleville Township High School (which is now Belleville West), Patton attended SIU-Carbondale, getting a bachelor's degree in 1962 and a master's degree in education in 1963. He started teaching at Belleville Township in the fall of '63, then moved to East when the school opened three years later.

"BOOTS BUDEE was the head coach the three years I was at West," Patton said. "When I came out of college, I thought I knew enough about baseball to compete."

Stegemeier said. "But it's time to move on. 'I've always really loved baseball. It just kind of came natural.'"

With two outs in the seventh,

Granite City summer squads in full swing

By Scott Wuerz
Correspondent

The Granite City Park District's baseball season is in full swing, and the competitive league with some help from volunteer coaches has the area's boys of summer taking their cuts.

The Midget II division, for 13-year-old boys, has been especially competitive in the first half of the season. The Jays, coached by Ralph Burnett Jr., lead the field with a perfect 7-0 record. But the NALC Colts are a close second with a 6-2 mark.

COLTS COACH Paul Gilley said he thinks his team can give the Jays some tough competition on the strength of a strong work ethic and an on-field leader in catcher Josh McConney.

"Josh has a lot of natural ability and is one of the players who helped stabilize us when the kids were younger and not playing the caliber of ball they do now," Gilley said. "I'd stack him up defensively with any catcher at this level, and he also brings some strength to the plate as our clean-up hitter."

Gilley also named pitchers Tony Komoromi and Anthony Garrett as team leaders.

"We really work together well as a team because we are strong defensively and our infield really helps out our pitchers," Gilley said.

"THIS IS really an exceptional bunch of kids in that they really love to play the game and work hard to be successful. Coaching this team has been one of the most rewarding things I can do as a father."

The Colts won their last game 12-2 over the Oilers, and they will play their next game July 8 include Summer Long, Brittany Kuit, Nikki King, Kelly Jackson, Jerri Baugus, Jennifer Vonnick, Natalie Sebastian, Amanda Smothers, Brittany Pritchard, Nicole Prazma, Cara Paoli, Katie Nonn, Mia Fagotgun and Lindsay Brown.

TRAVIS PAPP was the winning pitcher for Spencer Specialties as it bested the Video Magic Whiz Kids 17-3 in Bantam 1 play.

Spencer used a 10-run fourth inning to take the lead and up its record to 2-4 on the season. Brian Donohue ripped a two-run homer and Jacob Trtjanj added three hits.

Also, Aaron Barlock had a pair of hits and an RBI. Andy Schwierjohn, son of coach Irene Schwierjohn, had a double, a triple and two RBIs. Scott Jensen had two hits and drove in a run and Jacob Green had two RBIs.

Steven Bledsoe plated two runs with a pair of hits, as did Neil Loftus. Scott Carney also drove in a run. Other team members include Michael Harper, Robert Johnson, Paul Wood and Matt Mansfield.

IN BANTAM II play this week, the Italian American Club suffered a 10-0 setback against Amvets Post 51.

With the loss, the Italian American Club fell to 2-6 on the season, while Amvets upped its mark to 2-5. Chris Kayich and Dwayne McKee have the two pitching wins for Italian American Club, coached by Jerry Petrillo. Other team members include Jeff Holliday, Dave Crouch, Jarrod Caselton, Bob Roberts, Jeff Melton, Michael Hopkins, Paul Brown, Tom Petrillo, Cody Gray, Doug Horton, Bryon Clark and Lindsey Haberlein.

THE COLDWELL BANKER Stars dropped a Midget 1 game to the Elks last week, 11-8. The loss lowered Dan Harris' team's mark to 2-5 on the season despite a strong pitching performance from Coldwell's Dana Timmons, who also had two hits and drove in a run.

Danny Harris was 3 for 3 and had two RBIs and Scott Sarich drove in a pair of runs and went 2 for 3. Jeremy Yeager also had a hit and an RBI.

against the Jays in a battle between the division's top two teams.

In Midget 1 play, the Mr. Twist Sluggers have jumped out to a 7-0 record. The lead the Eagles, now 5-1 by 1½ games.

Coach Winston Mayes said the success of his team comes from an attitude of stressing teamwork over individual success.

"I THINK one of the reasons we've played so well this season is that we continue to improve across the board as the kids have become older," Mayes said.

"I try to teach everyone to understand they are an equal part of this team and that we don't need a 'star' if everyone pulls their fair share."

Mayes said the Sluggers have also benefited from having one of the strongest pitching staffs in their age group. League rules allow a pitcher to throw only five innings a game, but Mayes said pitchers Devon Mayes and Carl Helton have each thrown no-hitters.

JASON ACCORD, who is also a pitcher, ranks in Mayes' book as the most improved player on the team from last season.

"If I had to name the person who I felt tried the hardest to improve himself, I would easily choose Accord," Mayes said. "If there is such a thing as giving 100 percent, he is the person who does it."

The Sluggers defeated the Cahokia Discount Furniture team handily in their last outing, and they will face Illinois American Water (3-1) in their next game on Monday.

In the Atom 1 division, for eight year-old boys, The Bluebirds hold the top spot with a 5-0 record. The Firefighters are second in the division at 4-1.

Mike Przygoda, coach of the 2-3 Black Sox, said he and his counterparts are most interested in teaching the boys the proper way to play baseball and in making the game fun as opposed to pressing them for success in the standings.

"THE THING I consider to be the greatest indicator of success on this team is the fact that all of my players are enthusiastic about coming out for practice and the games," Przygoda said.

"There are boys at this level who literally didn't know how to put a baseball glove on at the start of the season, but teaching these players the fundamentals and to love the game now will really pay off in the long run."

from Triple-A pitching," Stegemeier said. "I was kind of in awe. I was nervous. My debut was hitting into a double play."

In his next game, Stegemeier rebounded.

"My first time up, I hit a triple. I finished with two hits, and I was involved in about four double plays. I came back a little better from my debut."

The team was sold at the end of the season, and Stegemeier wound up in San Jose the next year. But not before he returned to Rice to finish up his education.

THE SCHOOL YEAR cut into spring training, but Stegemeier was determined to complete his degree in physical education. It would pay off later.

Still, Stegemeier wonders how far he could have progressed if he had stuck to baseball only.

"Looking back, you often wonder what could have happened," Stegemeier said. "But I don't regret what I did."

Stegemeier did some coaching at Rice, and then he returned to the minors. After playing out the year in San Jose, his career was again put on hold when he received his draft notice in December 1986.

He stayed active in baseball, playing on base teams in Fort Knox, Ky., and later in Korea. One of his teams won a Far East championship.

WHEN HE RETURNED to the United States in 1989, Stegemeier ended his playing career at Class AA New Orleans of the Southern Association.

The same year, he would marry his wife, Betty, and start his teaching career at Wilson School.

Playing professionally, he said, was a dream.

"It was a special experience," Stegemeier said. "It was great. That's what you always strive for. I enjoyed playing baseball every day."

"We played against a lot of guys who were on their way up. I just went out and tried to do the best I could. It was fun."

AMONG THE PLAYERS Stegemeier competed against were New York Yankees legend Don be a great coach. When I spent those years with Boots, I found out there was so much more to coaching than I ever realized."

Jack Burke, East's longtime assistant coach, is joining Patton in retirement.

"I met Jack in '66 and he became the varsity assistant," said Patton, who taught math.

"We've been together since. Norm Fink (who is also retiring) came on the scene around 1970 and took the sophomore team."

Jim Voelkel (an East graduate) started coaching the freshman team in the mid-'70s.

"The four of us being together all those years contributed a lot to the success of our program."

Dennis Schutzenhofer, a 1967 West graduate, has been named as East's new head coach after 19 years as an assistant at West Voelkel, whose coaching position was eliminated after the 1992 season due to budget cuts, is expected to return.

"One of the exciting things about this job was being involved in the individual lives of these guys and seeing what takes place in the future," Patton said. "Many of them have become successful and several of them have become successful coaches."

seven laps before Steve Kosiski took command. Joe Kosiski dogged Steve, making his last lap move at the finish line.

"You know what they say, you have to stay close to make things happen," Joe Kosiski said of his last lap pass. "This time the close was for us. The good happened for us. I'm sorry for Steve, but I wanted to win it as badly as he did and it was just one of those things that worked that way."

NASCAR Winston Cup star Ken Schrader started in the 20th spot by virtue of his ninth place finish in the second J&J Steel Qualifier. A two-time winner of this race, the former Fenton resident was held up by lapped traffic all night and came home 12th in the 60-lap headliner.

St. Louisan Kevin Gundaker conducted a clinic on passing on a crowded track. He passed more cars than anyone, coming from 10th to finish fourth.

The Allied Auto Racing Association Modifieds put on quite a show on the flat half-mile, with Jim Durbin yanking the lead from Mike Hammerle on lap five of their 20-lapper. Durbin and Marc McClintock took the heats with Hammerle capturing the dash.

Larsen, Boston Red Sox executive Haywood Sullivan and current National League president Bill White.

His playing days behind him, Stegemeier spent the next few years teaching and coaching. He taught at Sprather Junior High and also served as the school's baseball coach.

He transferred to Granite City High in 1966, where he began teaching physical education and driver's education. He served as an assistant football coach.

When longtime baseball coach Joe Fedora became the Granite City athletic director in 1969, Stegemeier took over the sophomore team and coached on that level until 1973. A year later, Granite City North opened, and he began coaching the Steelers.

OVER THE NEXT 20 years, Stegemeier compiled an overall record of 354-297. His teams won three regional titles and produced numerous college players.

His accomplishments were rewarded this year with an induction into the Illinois High School Baseball Coaches Association's Hall of Fame.

But to this day, Stegemeier turns the credit over to his players.

"I had a lot of good players over the years," Stegemeier said. "Granite City has been a good baseball town. We always had real good talent to work with."

"Good teams are a reflection of good players. My success in coaching is a result of that."

Stegemeier's landmark year came in 1979 at Granite City North. The Steelers were loaded with offense, and they made it to the state tournament before losing to Oak Forest.

OTHER TEAMS, like the 1980-87 Warriors, stand out. But the 1979 Steelers were his only state tournament team.

"We had some great teams, but I think that ballclub was probably the best one overall I coached," he said. "We had a couple of real good pitchers, and we had great hitters. Up and down the lineup, they were just awesome."

Singling out his best players gets a little more difficult. Tom Greco and Mike Robertson from the 1979 team come to mind, as do Steve Trittschuh, Daren DePew, Tim and Jamie Hogan and Darin Hendrickson.

Then there is Joe Wallace, the catcher who could turn out to be the best of them all.

"I would say he's one of my five best," Stegemeier said. "It's tough to say. I've had some real good players."

Stegemeier's regional championships came in 1979, 1981 and 1987. Six years passed between the second and third titles, giving Stegemeier hope that his Warriors would be due again this year.

BUT THE WARRIORS lost in the regional final to an opportunistic Edwardsville team, which advanced to the Granite City Sectional.

This year's team was a typical Stegemeier squad: senior dominated, solid defensively especially up the middle and powerful at the plate.

"I tried to always have teams that were fundamentally sound," Stegemeier said. "I wasn't a great strategist who went for trick plays."

The loss to Edwardsville ended Stegemeier's career, but he did get to experience a first in the Warrior baseball team's history. Granite City played at Busch Stadium on May 30 and defeated Moline Vernon.

That turned out to be Stegemeier's final win in a uniform. It capped a career, that could only be described as "major league."

"It was a good way to go out," Stegemeier said. "It was fun for the kids and fun for me. It's something I'll always remember."

•Coaches

chances for another meeting between Stegemeier and Patton ended in regional play. The Warriors lost to Edwardsville, and the Lancers lost to Belleville West.

West defeated Edwardsville in the sectional title game. But West coach Chuck Hasenstab said any of the four teams — Granite City, West, East or Edwardsville — could have advanced to state this season.

It was a year in which Granite City defeated East twice but lost to West twice. And East defeated West twice in the regular season before losing to the Maroons in a regional title game.

"The parity this whole year was great," Hasenstab said. "I was hoping Bob could sneak in and play us (for the sectional title). I was really pulling for him. He had a great team, and it would have been a great game between us."

"I think when you look at all the teams in the area, this year (the Warriors) were a really good ballclub. Any one of these teams could have won the sectional. We felt we were very fortunate to win."

Hasenstab, who is nearing 30 years as the head coach at Belleville West, said next year will be different without Stegemeier and Patton around. But he added that their replacements, Gus Lignou (Granite City) and Dennis Schutzenhofer (Belleville East) will continue the tradition.

"It's sad to see them go," Hasenstab said. "They've both been excellent coaches in the conference and the area. They've helped make the conference one of the best in the state."

"Bob Stegemeier has always been very competitive, and I'm sure that will continue with whatever he does. I've always enjoyed competing against him. It's a friendly rivalry, but it's also a very competitive one."

Stegemeier said it is tough to leave the Southwestern Conference behind him. He, Patton and Hasenstab have maintained a healthy relationship over the years.

The Maroons have made it to the state tournament the past two years. Patton's teams made a total of six trips to state, and Stegemeier took Granite City North to state in 1979.

"They're good people," Stegemeier said of Patton and Hasenstab. "It's kind of an honor for me to be mentioned in the same words as (Patton). He's an outstanding coach, and he's done a lot for baseball in this area and the state."

"We had a lot of good games over the years. I have nothing but fond memories."

Travelers Abroad hears about Panama trip

Travelers Abroad held its last dinner meeting of the season at Jerry's Cafeteria with 28 members present.

Alice Purdes welcomed the group and door prizes were won by Eleanor Schweizer and Marge O'Neill. In a brief business session, the group voted to have its holiday meeting on Nov. 26. Speakers for the three fall meetings will be Charles Schweizer on "Kimodi Dragons of Borneo," Joe and Gen Hill on "Costa Rica, Through the Eyes of Volunteers," and Marguerite and Charles Lexow on "Switzerland."

The program for the evening was presented by Charles Schweizer, who gave a brief background on Panama before showing slides of his trip through the canal and some of the environs.

On one of Columbus' last trips, he sailed through the Caribbean Sea and ended up in Colon Bay (which is Spanish for Columbus). Spanish explorers of South America found the gold of the areas in Peru and Colombia. The old town of Panama City, from where the gold was carried across the isthmus on mules to Portobelo and then on to Spain.

France attempted to copy the construction of the Suez Canal, which was a sea-level canal, in Panama and, according to Schweizer, did a tremendous job before it gave up and the Americans took over. Because of the mountainous terrain, the canal had to go up through four steps (locks) over the mountain and then descend through four steps on the other side. Water for both sets of locks is provided by the specially-built Gatun Lake. While the Americans were building the canal, they had to fight the neighboring Columbian Indians. The first ship passed through in August 1914.

Schweizer's slides showed mules (actually electric locomotives) attached to cables pulling the ship into the locks. The canal is run by the Panama Canal Company through first with passenger ships relegated to second position. An atomic sub, followed by a five-masted Spanish sailing ship full of soldiers, preceded the Schweizer's cruise ship through the canal. Nothing got close to the boat.

In response to a question from his audience, Schweizer said they flew the Panamanian flag throughout their trip, even though their ship had been chartered from Norway. The Schweizer were on the 80-passenger Polaris ship and for all off-shore excursions they used zodiacs, which were large rubber boats which could go into areas with less depth. In order to keep track of the passengers, each one had a number. When the passengers left the zodiac, they took their numbers; when they returned, they hung them up so the crew could keep the head count.

Breakfast and lunch were buffet-style and dinner was served, with only one sitting. The Darien jungles are about 125 miles south of the canal and they are populated by the Choco Indians, who reside in huts constructed of reeds and palms lashed together. On their visit to an Indian village, everyone had to get into the Indian boats, which could navigate through the low water where the zodiac could not. Each person wore his life jacket. Each visitor was escorted by hand to the village proper by an Indian; some, from the construction of the canal, were three or four years old. Prior warnings to the visitors indicated that some of the slides would not be fully dressed and that the map would also be partially clad.

Proceeding to Costa Rica, which means "rich coast," all visitors registered with customs before their trip. They were surprised to see that the Corps of Engineers was building many roads. In Costa Rica, the emphasis is on the environment as the group traveled on rivers and was equipped with glasses, etc., to check the foliage, trees, and birds. Some of the slides showed tremendous flocks of certain birds concentrating on two or three trees. Monkeys and lizards were also very visible.

San Jose had a large volcanic eruption in the mid-1950s and the slides showed a ferocious area that is still steaming. Schweizer asked Gen Hill to continue discussing Costa Rica as she and her husband, Joe, had experienced the country in a different manner. The Hills, working through the International Executive Corps of Retired Individuals, went to this Third World country to help persons/businesses in different ways develop ideas and skills to improve themselves. The idea is funded by government donations for individuals and corporations. Clients who want help also contribute. Some of the first information the Hills learned, from their country's director, was that the volunteers are new down to the country on any American airlines. Each volunteer couple is met personally at the airport by the country's director, his wife, people from the agency, and then driven to their hotel.

Prior to their visit, the Hills had received a list of customs that should be observed in the country. These varied from "all women must wear a dress at dinner time" to table manners involving the hands.

Gen Hill said they had developed a new phrase called "taco time." After spending much time waiting for appointments, etc., that never began at the time indicated, the Hills would ask, "Is the time the 'real time' or is it 'taco time,'" meaning whenever one showed up.

Due to a meeting-time restriction, the Hills agreed to elaborate much more on their experiences in Costa Rica at the October meeting of the group.

Additional members present were Lillian Delpe, Nina Dittman, Georgia Engle, Mary Evangelou, Dorothy and Waldo Frohadt, Eunice and Julienne Hatcher, John Gordon, Freda Bergdorf, Betty Duff, Virginia Segar, Harry Parker, Martha and Jimmy Hayes, Dorothy Hoebeke, Marguerite Lexow, Betty Townsend, Mary Lee and Ed Lorton, Barbara Williams, and Nora King.

New members are being sought from persons who have traveled outside the continental United States. Call 831-2559 for more information.

Military

Douglas D. Deltour
Navy Hospitalman Apprentice Douglas D. Deltour, son of Roger M. and Shirley M. Deltour of Granite City, recently reported for duty at Naval Hospital, Beaufort, N.C.

The 1989 graduate of Granite City High School joined the Navy in September 1992.

Stephen W. Brees
Marine Lance Corporal Stephen W. Brees, a 1991 graduate of Granite City High School, recently participated in a field training exercise with Second Battalion, Third Marines, Third Marine Division, Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii.

During the FTX, the Third Marines served as the ground combat element of the 35th Marine Expeditionary Unit in the Northern Training Area of Okinawa, Japan. This training was conducted in preparation for the unit's deployment to Thailand for exercise Cobra Gold '93.

He joined the Marine Corps in January 1992.

Brian J. Papa
Navy Petty Officer Second Class Brian J. Papa, son of William C. and Patsy A. Papa of Madison, recently returned with Airborne

Early Warning Squadron 114, Naval Air Station Miramar, San Diego, embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk, from a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Persian Gulf as part of the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk battle group.

During the deployment, elements of the battle group participated in the relief effort Operation Restore Hope by supporting the delivery of food and medical supplies to key relief centers in Somalia. The battle group also participated in Operation Southern Watch, enforcing the United Nations-imposed "no-fly" zone over Southern Iraq in conjunction with French, British, and Russian forces.

The squadron flies the E-3C Hawkeye aircraft, which is designed to provide all-weather airborne early warning and command and control functions, surface surveillance coordination, strike and interceptor control, search and rescue guidance and communications relay.

The deployment exemplified the Navy and Marine Corps' new strategy entitled "...From the Sea," which stresses operating forward to project a positive American image, building foundations for viable coalitions, enhancing diplomatic contacts, reassuring friends and demonstrating U.S. power and resolve.

The 1983 graduate of Madison

Senior High School joined the Navy in November 1990.

Robert Gaddy
Private Robert Allen Gaddy, son of David and Felicia Gaddy of Granite City, completed his basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., and his AIT at Fort Benjamin, Harrison, Ind. After two weeks leave at home, he will be stationed at Fairbanks, Alaska, for three years. He is the grandson of Russell and Helen Gaddy of Granite City.

Ruth Young
Staff Sgt. Ruth E. Young, U.S. Army recruiter for the U.S. Army Recruiting Station in East St. Louis, received the U.S. Army's Gold Badge Recruiting Award recently. The Gold Badge is awarded to select U.S. Army recruiters who achieve excellence in meeting recruiting standards, according to officials at the U.S. Army Recruiting Battalion headquarters in St. Louis.

In addition to the Army's Gold Badge, her awards and decorations include one Army Commendation Medal; three Army Achievement Medals; and four Good Conduct Medals. She was named Top U.S. Army Reserve recruiter for the second quarter, 1993, and received the Silver Army Recruiting Badge, with three gold stars.

She has been in the army since 1975. She, her husband Edward and their three sons reside at the Granite City Army Depot.

Beyer honored for leadership

Major Jeff Beyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Beyer of Granite City, received the Air Force Meritorious Service Medal recognizing his outstanding leadership and teaching contributions while assigned to AFOTC Detachment 207, Parks College, Cahokia.

Beyer united two cadet groups (180 cadets) covering 12 universities into a newly-formed wing. His recruiting efforts increased enrollment by 67 percent and produced 97 second lieutenants during his four-year tour.

Beyer's AFOTC Federal Scholarship Program was ranked the best in the nation for two years in a row. He was credited with increasing minority enrollment at one of his cross-town universities by 300 percent and having the largest freshman class enrollment for the last 27 years. As faculty adviser to the Arnold Air Society Squadron, he was the undisputed leader in all of AFOTC. He was selected as the Regional Adviser of the Year two years in a row and National Adviser of the Year (tops of 147 detachments). He was also ranked as the best instructor of his detachment four years in a row.

Beyer is a 1973 graduate of Granite City High School and a 1977 graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville with a bachelor's degree in Mass Communications. He received his MBA in Marketing through the University of Wyoming at Laramie.

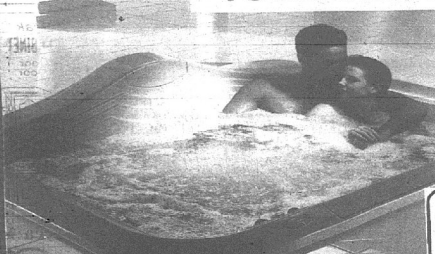

Beyer is married to the former Kimberly Sparks of East Alton; they have two children, Benjamin and Jacob. Beyer is now assigned as the commander of the Contracting Squadron at Pope Air Force Base in North Carolina.

MEMORIAL'S OUTPATIENT SURGERY CENTER... "UNCOMMON" CARING, BUT NOT IN A "COMMON" AREA.

Outpatient surgery has many advantages. But spending time in a large "shared" or "common" room close to other patients before and after surgery isn't one of them - particularly when you may not be at your best or when you need to discuss your personal medical concerns with your physician or nurse.

From patient evaluations of our services, they told us privacy is an important priority. We listened. Memorial's Outpatient Surgery Center sets standards for others to follow by providing personalized care by exceptional nursing professionals in our 28 private patient areas - each with a TV and room for family members to stay - with you before and after surgery.

They also told us to pay attention to other important things, like prompt registration, a separate family waiting area, adjacent parking and a drive-up entrance. We did. Small conveniences, perhaps, but aren't these what we notice most?

When your physician recommends outpatient surgery - from minor to the most complex procedures - ask that it be performed at Memorial's Outpatient Surgery Center - where personalized caring, privacy, and convenience are "common."

New members dinner held at 1st Presbyterian

The first annual New Members and First Friends dinner was celebrated May 15 at First Presbyterian Church in Granite City. It was hosted by the membership committee: Jennifer Owens, Luther Biggs, Jack DeCoursey, Laura McIlwray, Helen Steele and Norma Macios, assisted by Mary Jane Biggs, Ron Owens and Ted Macios. Dr. Lewis Trotter is pastor of the church.

After an invocation by Jack DeCoursey followed by dinner, everyone was welcomed by Membership Chairperson Jennifer Owens.

First Friends were presented pins by Dr. Trotter, assisted by Helen Steele.

Short explanations of deacon and session committees were provided by Loren Davis, chairman of deacons, and Barbara Coleman, clerk of the session. Bill Burcky directed an activity to highlight the importance of teamwork.

Closing prayer was given by Norma Macios.

The First Friends program was initiated in 1992 to assimilate new members more smoothly into the life of the church. Since its inception, 33 new members have joined the church.

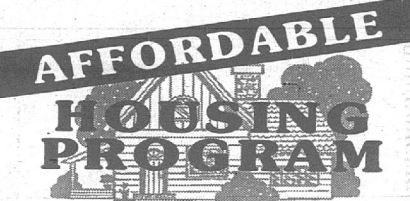

Others in attendance were Connie Trotter, Charlie McIlwray, Amy Boring, Jo Ann Burcky,

Ron Coleman, Carol Davis, Ed and Becky Cowley, Shirley DeCoursey, Muriel and Fred Possieck, Lisa, Jeff and Amber Frost, Burdine Holtzner, Dorothy and Richard Kerch, Sandy and Matt Kozyak, Amie Owens, Adele and Ralph Reeder, Josh Sedabres, Ann Rich, Ruth, Hez zie and Sarah Todd, Betty Faye and Sid Vaughn.

OH MY ACHING CORNS!

A phrase so commonly used by those suffering needlessly from painful corns. Although trimming them affords temporary relief, within 1-2 months regrowth of the corn occurs along with the pain and discomfort. The recurrence is due to the underlying calcium deposit causing excessive pressure where the skin responds by building up that corn tissue. In almost all instances the corn can be permanently removed by an in office procedure requiring little or no time off work. There is no need to suffer any longer. Consult the physicians and surgeons at the FOOT HEALTH CENTERS.

The Foot Health Centers

Staffed with physicians and surgeons specializing in the medical and surgical treatment of diseases and deformities of the foot.

SIUE production's dancing pleases director

J. Calvin Jarrell may have finally found a show with enough dancing in it that he won't feel compelled to add any.

The associate professor of theater and dance at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and director of dance at the university, for once, may not have to add any dance steps to a musical, as he has been prone to do in the past to the delight of SIUE audiences.

"A Day in Hollywood/A Night in the Ukraine," which Jarrell is directing for SIUE's Summer Showbiz '93, is a show that owes half of its "life" to energetic tap dancing in the Busby Berkeley 1930s style.

"I always like to put in more dance in a show to make it even more lively than usual, but this one is already full of great dancing scenes," Jarrell said.

The musical will be staged at 7:30 p.m. Friday through Sunday, July 9-11, and at 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday, July 15-18, all in SIUE's Communication Building theater. They play's opening night performance, Thursday, July 8, is already sold out.

Tap dancing is not a style for Jarrell is known to be, but it fills his shows with jazz and modern choreography.

"I don't get to do a lot of tap choreography, although I have done a tap scene or two in past musicals I've directed, and I do teach a tap class once a year," he said.

In fact, Jarrell's spring quarter class is known to be one of the actors cast in "A Day in Hollywood" so they could bone up on the technique. And Jarrell's up to the task, with enthusiasm. "The fuel for all this is an insatiable imagination that "A Day in Hollywood/A Night in the Ukraine" blends musical review and comedy for an exciting evening of theater. During the comedy portion of the show, "A Night in the Ukraine," familiar characters keep the gags running rapid-fire as Samovar the Lawyer, played by Tony Visser of Alton, reacts to the antics of Gino, portrayed by Heather Holland of Centralia, and Carlo, played by Scott Brady of Chatham.

bypasses self-doubt," he said with a laugh. "I only consider myself an intermediate tapper, but I do have an innate sense of rhythm."

Rhythm is precisely what lends zip to the first half of this hit Broadway musical — scene after scene of energetic tapping. With book and lyrics by Dick Vosburgh and music by Frank Lazarus, "A Day in Hollywood" is a fast-paced review of the music and dancing that made 1930s Hollywood the film capital of the world, while the second half, "A Night in the Ukraine," has been called the "The Bear," the Marx Brothers didn't make, but could have ... Combined, it's a Broadway, tap-dancing, musical comedy blending various elements to create a hilarious spoof of Hollywood and movies of the 1930s.

The first half takes the audience to the lobby of the old Grauman's Chinese Theater on Hollywood Boulevard, where members of the ushering staff sing a musical tribute to the screen stars and productions of that magical 1930s era. At the end of the first act, the cast introduces the coming attraction, "A Night in the Ukraine," which comprises the second act. "Ukraine" is loosely based on Anton Chekhov's "The Bear," and features familiar characters who resemble Groucho, Chico, Harpo, as well as the long-suffering Margaret Bumont character who is played by the hapless butt of the jokes in several classic Marx Brothers movies.

In this version, the trio of tricksters find themselves at the stately mansion of Mrs. Pavlenko, a wealthy Ukrainian widow whose deceased husband owes Samovar the Lawyer (a.k.a. Groucho) some legal fees for services rendered. Tony Visser, of Alton, takes the Samovar role, cracking wise from beginning to end and trading non-stop gags with Carlo (Chico), played by Scott Brady of Chatham, and the "silent" Gino (Harpo), portrayed by Heather Holland of Centralia. Pavlenko is played by Amy Jayne of St. Louis.

The cast is completed by Erin Henderson of Effingham as Mrs. Pavlenko's daughter, Chris Travers of Belleville as Constantine, Amy Pomeroy of Edwardsville as Masha, and Mike O'Brien of Edwardsville as Sascha.

"I really like this play and I love this style of humor which comes out of the Charlie Chaplin and Laurel and Hardy tradition," Jarrell said. "And I'm definitely a Marx Brothers fan. As for the musical review portion, the members of this very talented ensemble have really been doing well in rehearsal, picking up the complicated tap steps."

"There aren't any really flashy steps, but there are steps based on rhythmic sounds, which will make for some very exciting dance numbers," he said.

Tickets for "A Day in Hollywood/A Night in the Ukraine" are $7; seniors, SIUE faculty, staff and students, and children under 12 years of age, $5.50.

Horoscope

Surprising gains come when you trust instinct over logic. A strong drive for security helps you build a foundation for success in the outside world. People away from family may tend to be more homesick than usual.

Some find it easier to know what others are thinking. Property affairs should take a turn for the better. Give kids an extra hug.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Your family benefits greatly from your presence; secure the home front before moving on to your next venture. A recently started relationship is getting ready to enter its next phase of development. Speak out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Accelerated learning experiences can enhance the natural capabilities of your mind. If you care about family, show it with a special gesture. Expect the phone to be ringing off the wall for most of the week. Offer advice freely.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Hanging onto what you've earned is a definite virtue this week; the extra reserves will come in handy when the times come. Weekend sales go well if you initiate a different approach. You are entitled to a fulfilling emotional life.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Spiritual uplift comes from an unlikely source validating what you already know. Usual family arrangements should be flexible enough to encourage personal growth. Shop for the kitchen or other household items.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). The feverish pace begins to die down, freeing you to develop more fully what you have recently started. For the next month, allow yourself to recharge your emotional batteries. Friends are there for you when the family isn't.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 27). Nurture your own creativity in '93. In July, you overcome your timidity as you search for a new direction; start projects or revise old ones. Relationships are full of smiles in August and December. September takes you through a wide range of positive emotions. October gives you a taste of what the energy of '94 is like. Give practicalities greater attention, especially November and January.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Solid friendships mean more than ever, including one in particular. Make a career choice based upon what you can honestly put your heart into. Walking as exercise could become your favorite routine.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Life brings you an opportunity to expand upon what you already know. Relationship security is reaffirmed when you make a point to tell your partner those three little words. A former employer is worth contacting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Your partner's material fortunes are on the upswing, benefiting you indirectly for now. Others need your emotional reassurance. If looking, you have better luck finding it in a suitable position close to home.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Domestic issues are worth discussing; everyone feels better after airing their views. A friendship may become a business partnership. Review your long-term goals to make sure you're on the right track.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Love has a way of getting a special hold on you today. You would benefit greatly by having a qualified astrologer check out your current business cycle. You're better able to release a painful emotional loss and move on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Knowing what's right for you is an instinct you should always trust. You may discover that you're surprisingly possessive about your job. Take steps now to keep yourself from simply drifting out of someone's life.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Small-town life may have its advantages, but you have to find out for yourself. Do what you can to help a family member deal with a chronic addiction. You can have a new lifestyle if you're willing to work for it above all.

Schwarzenegger wants to become different 'Hero'

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

Arnold Schwarzenegger is asking audiences to accept him as a gentler super hero in "The Last Action Hero."

In "The Last Action Hero," Schwarzenegger plays Sgt. Jack Slater, a famous fictional movie hero who, through the magic of the movies, becomes partners with a little boy when the boy's magical movie ticket blasts him out of his theater seat and into one of Jack's films.

The little boy, named Danny Madigan, is played by 11-year-old Austin O'Brien.

"The Last Action Hero" reunites Schwarzenegger with director John McTiernan, who directed him in the box office smash "Predator" in 1987.

"Both John and I have been waiting for an ideal project on which to work together again," Schwarzenegger said. "This picture is an exciting, action-packed movie with an incredible story we both loved. It's the ultimate kids' fantasy to meet your hero, climb buildings, take on five guys at once and win major battles."

The movie is a departure from the formula action film, McTiernan said.

"Some people think they can make action movies by formula and have repeated the same thing time and again. As a result, they have made the genre a fat target for a story like ours," he said.

Action-hero Jack Slater (Arnold Schwarzenegger) hits it off with Danny's mom (Mercedes Ruehl), in "Last Action Hero." Harry Hamm's review calls the movie a film of lot of action and comedy potential it never really delivers.

"Audiences have caught on to the formula movies, so to make things interesting again we're having some fun with that. We use the audience's knowledge of the genre as a basis for our jokes, and it works beautifully."

"The film is full of sly comments on the movies all regular moviegoers will recognize," Schwarzenegger, who turns 46 on July 30, says he liked the script the first time he read it. "It was an entertaining script," Schwarzenegger said. "It has a lot of comedy and action and heart, but mostly there is the fantasy element, which I think everyone, young or old, in every part of the world shares."

Regional champion quartet includes Granite City singer

Cathy Rigby celebrates The Munny's 75th season as she stars as Annie Oakley in "Annie Get Your Gun," July 5-11.

Ken Kercheval will appear as Capt. Von Trapp in The Munny's 1993 production of "The Sound of Music."

Local favorites return for Munny's 75th season

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

Some of Broadway's best — and St. Louis' most favorite — productions are lined up for this summer's 75th season at The Munny in Forest Park.

The seven musicals chosen for this Diamond Jubilee slate represent not only some of the finest of Broadway between 1948 and 1972, they also represent titles most often requested by Munny patrons in post-season opinion surveys.

Munny executive producer Paul Blake, whose lavish, large-scale productions have become a favorite of Munny audiences, will produce six of this summer's attractions. "Annie Get Your Gun" is being produced by a New York-based group.

Each show this season will have what Blake describes as a "75 factor" in honor of the anniversary. For example, in "The Sound of Music" Blake is promising the talents of 75 hand-bell ringers and a choir of 75 area puns.

Here's a description of what's playing this summer.

"The Sound of Music" — June 21 to 27.

This will be the sixth visit by "The Sound of Music" to the Munny. The cast is to be headed by Christine Andreas, Ken Kercheval and Marni Nixon. Nixon appeared in the original film version from 1965 that starred Julie Andrews.

"The Sound of Music" first opened on Broadway in 1959. The show marked the 35th and final work of Oscar Hammerstein II, who died nine months after the opening.

"Annie Get Your Gun" — July 5 to 11.

Cathy Rigby will star as Annie Oakley, the role originally played by Ethel Merman when "Annie Get Your Gun" bowed on Broadway in 1946. It was the first of two shows Irving Berlin wrote for Ethel Merman. (The other was "Call Me Madam.") produced by Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II. It is the only musical production the two were involved in without writing the score. This season will mark "Annie Get Your Gun's" fifth visit to the Munny stage.

"Grease" — July 12 to 18.

The newest of the Munny attractions this summer, "Grease" is making its second visit to the Forest Park stage.

"Grease" was a surprise hit on Broadway, where it enjoyed a run of 3,388 performances over an eight-year period, second only to "A Chorus Line."

It originally opened in New York in 1972.

"Peter Pan" — July 19 to 25.

"Peter Pan" pays its fifth call on the Munny, this time headlined by Emily Loesser, the daughter of Broadway composer, lyricist and writer, Frank Loesser.

Walter Matthau is being sought to play Captain Hook. Tim Conway may also appear as Hook's right-hand henchman. Neither has committed at this time. "Peter Pan" originally opened on Broadway in 1954, starring Mary Martin.

"Peter Pan's" most successful Broadway engagement was when it was presented as a revival in 1979 starring Sandy Duncan and enjoyed a run of 551 performances.

"Fiddler on the Roof" — July 26 to Aug. 1.

Headlined by Theodore Bikel, this is "Fiddler's" sixth time as a Munny production.

The show opened on Broadway in 1964 and ran for an amazing 3,242 performances. Bikel also has a connection to the Munny's first production of the season, "The Sound of Music." He appeared as Baron Von Trapp in the original Broadway company.

"Oliver" — Aug. 2 to 8.

"Oliver" pays its fourth visit to the Munny.

This musical set in the back streets of Dickens' Victorian London ran for 12 years in London, which makes it the longest-running musical in the history of the London stage. Davey Jones will headline this company.

"Oklahoma" — Aug. 9 to 15.

"Oklahoma" is coming back to the Munny for its seventh visit, making it one of the most popular musicals in modern Munny history.

A recognized landmark in the evolution of the American musical theater, "Oklahoma" is the original collaboration of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II, who went on to write nine shows together.

"Oklahoma" opened on Broadway in 1943. It was revived on Broadway in 1979. Christine Andreas, who headlines this summer's production, was in that revival cast.

Fun featured in SIUE Summer Showbiz '93

Related story, Page 9C

Summer Showbiz '93, the summer stock theater season at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, offers the hit musical "A Day in Hollywood/A Night in the Ukraine" and Neil Simon's classic comedy "Barefoot in the Park" as this year's playbill of warm-weather entertainment.

A Broadway, tap-dancing, musical comedy, "A Day in Hollywood/A Night in the Ukraine" blends elements of the old Busby Berkeley productions and Marx Brothers-style comedy in a hilarious spoof of Hollywood and movies of the 1930s.

It will be staged at 7:30 p.m. Friday through Sunday, July 9-11, and at 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday, July 15-18, all in the SIUE Communications Building theater. The play's opening night performance Thursday, July 8, is already sold out.

Tickets for "A Day in Hollywood/A Night in the Ukraine" are $2: SIUE faculty, staff and students, seniors, and children under 12 years of age, $5.50.

"Barefoot in the Park" is early Neil Simon that was a hit in the late 1950s and remains a classic piece of theater comedy today. Simon weaves a very funny story about a newlywed couple who move into their new apartment after a six-day honeymoon and find the "high-rent" accommodations are less than desired.

The mix of fun is stirred by an eccentric gourmet who must use the couple's apartment skylight and a ledge to climb into his own loft apartment above. The old New York World called "Barefoot" "...the merriest evening Broadway has enjoyed in years."

"Barefoot in the Park" will be staged at 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday, July 22-25, and at 7:30 p.m. Thursday through Sunday, July 29-31 and Aug. 1, all in the SIUE Metcalf Theater.

Tickets are $6: SIUE faculty, staff and students, seniors, and children under 12 years of age, $4.50.

Because the university will end its quarter academic system in mid-June and begin a semester academic system in mid-to-late August, Summer Showbiz '93 season has been shortened to two shows. Summer Showbiz '94 will return to a three-show season.

For more information or to make reservations, call the SIUE department of theater and dance box office, 692-2774.
